God give us men! A time like this demands Strong minds, great hearts, true faith and ready hands. Men who possess opinions and a will; Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy; Men whom the lust of office does not kill; Men who have honor and who will not lie; Men who can stand before a demagogue And scorn his treacherous flatteries without flinching. Tall men, sun-crowned, who live above the fog In public duty and private thinking.

Josiah G. Holland.

The Chamberlain Medicine Co.
Des Moines, Iowa, sends us a bundle of foreign newspapers Some of the papers bear names of places, which require one to recall forgotten geography or refer to the atlas to locate. Some of them are particularly curious as they are published in the vernacular or native languages which might be likened to the carefully written notes of a short hand writer.

To an American newspaper man it is interesting to note the manner in which the colonial English newspapers are made up.
They still cling to the methods which were practiced in this country fifty years ago, the advertisements being upon the first few pages, followed generally by the heavy editorials, then a few meager cable and telegraphic items, afterwards the local news.
The local news consist principally of the proceedings of the legislative bodies, town council, school board etc. Contributions by the readers are numerous and lengthy.

The editorials are generally of a more dignified and serious nature than American productions. The daily papers devote more space to book reviews and detailed reports of scientific progress than American newspapers do. Humor is not so noticeable and cartoons are used more rarely than with us.

Very few, if any, of the colonial papers issue a "pink sheet," but they supply this omission by devoting a large proportion of every issue to the sporting news.

The Spanish-American has secured a bundle of these papers and finds them very interesting to one who realizes that we will all be "Citizens of the World" within a few years and provincialism will not be tolerated.

Some of the republican newspapers of the party nominate no man who has been rejected by the voters. If that policy is adopted by the republican state convention it may result in a ticket hard for the democrats to beat.

Himalayas Highest Mountains.
The highest mountains in the world, that is, continuous range of greatest average height, are the Himalaya mountains in Asia. The range or system is nearly 1,500 miles long, more than 100 miles wide, contains many mountains from 16,000 to 18,000 feet high, and a number much higher. One of them, Mount Everest, rises to 29, 002 feet and is the highest on the globe. There are fifteen other mountains in the range from 22,240 to 28, 278 feet in height. Of 20 mountains in the world, which are over 22,000 feet high, 15 are in the Himalayas and five in the Andes in South America, the highest in the Andes being an extinct volcano 23,000 feet. The famous Chimborazo, in Ecuador, long believed to be the highest mountain in the Andes, is now known to be only 20,498 feet above sea level, and there are at least seven other peaks in the Andes that are higher. The highest in the Rocky mountains are Mount McKinley, 29,464 feet, and St. Elias, 18,016 feet, both in Alaska. There are many peaks in the Rocky mountains from 10,560 to 15,840 feet, or from two to three miles. There are 5,250 feet in a mile.
